

Denis Rožaj
Managing Director, Guardiaris

Denis Rozaj is an experienced executive officer, a leader with extensive knowledge in business development, company growth and project management. Back in 2001 he created a venture funded start-up that grew into a best game development studio in the region, which he successfully sold when the time was right in 2013. As ex-military pilot school cadet and as a person with soft spot in computer aided training, he co-founded Guardiaris, a company focused on the innovative and out-of-the-box approach to the training and simulation. He's been managing the company since 2007.

Guardiaris is a highly innovative SME specialised in the production of custom designed training solutions for the civil and defence industry. Guardiaris grew exponentially in the past three years and is employing over 50 experts dedicated to providing customers with tailor-made products and services.
